

Wednesday Round Table

10th June at 7pm on Zoom

A message from Linda Haggerstone

To start us off on the 10th, we'll keep it simple. First, we'll need to set some mutually understood guidelines for safe and friendly communication. (This might be the topic of the entire session!)

If everyone could bring to the zoom space a 'symbol' to share - one that is important in your life right now - that would be fantastic. Examples of symbol to share could be a short poem or reading, an object, an image or photograph, or an idea, as long as it is easily seen or heard without screen-sharing. I like this activity as an ice-breaker for our conversation, even virtually.

As an example, I could share this symbol, but as a smaller image on my necklace:

After each person has had a chance to briefly share their symbol, we can chat. Passing on sharing is totally fine.

Thoughts on this are welcome ahead of the session on the 10th.

Again, I appreciate the kind support for the possibility of keeping the group going.

The link is our usual meeting link. Don't if you don't know it, please contact Ali at:

church_officer@glasgowunitarians-scio.org.uk.

Best wishes,

Linda